Nanta, Korea's No.1 Nonverbal Performance

NANTA is Korea's first nonverbal performance by ingeniously transforming kitchen knives and cutting boards into musical instruments, infused with the rhythmic beats of traditional Korean music called Samulnori.

The show captivates audiences with its unique blend of humor and joy. It transcends language barriers, bringing laughter and delights to audiences from all corners of the globe, regardless of their language or nationality.

The Nanta Show has achieved a remarkable milestone as Korea's first production to attract over 15 million audiences. It was the first Asian performance on Broadway in New York, garnering widespread acclaim and positive reviews. This captivating show has been presented in 326 cities across 61 nations, showcasing its global popularity and reach.

The Nanta Show stands as a renowned cultural tourism program in Korea, widely recognized as one of Seoul's top ten tourist attractions.
