

[Shiosai Project] Ranked 4th Among Gardens

The ranking by the American journal Journal of Japanese Gardening evaluates gardens not based on historical significance, scale, or fame, but rather on their quality, harmony between garden and structure, and hospitality, reflecting how excellent they are as Japanese gardens to be appreciated today.

In the Shiosai Project, garden rankings are published annually, featuring the top 5% selected by experts worldwide from about 1,000 candidates, including traditional inns and former villas. This project continues to highlight this garden space as one of Japan's top venues for relaxation and beauty, maintaining its prestigious 4th place position.

"SEKITEI" Achieves 2 Michelin Keys

In the first-ever "Michelin Key Hotel Selection" announced in Japan, Sekitei earned a prestigious 2-Michelin Key rating.

Situated with a borrowed scenic backdrop of mountains, seas, and islands, Sekitei surrounds its exquisite Japanese garden with 12 uniquely designed guest rooms.

Guests can step into the garden from their rooms, settle into their favorite spot, and simply unwind considered the ultimate luxury.

When night falls, the garden glows with bonfire light, creating a mystical beauty that might be one-of-a-kind in the world.

It feels as though this captivating scenery has earned the recognition of the 2 Michelin Keys.
