GREAT MIGRATION SAFARI

Witness One of Nature's Greatest Spectacles

Every year, more than two million wildebeest, zebras, and gazelles travel in a clockwise 1,800km loop between Tanzania's Serengeti and Kenya's Maasai Mara, following the rains and in search of fresh grazing lands. The Great Migration is considered one of the world's most remarkable wildlife events and offers unforgettable safari experiences.

Depending on the season, visitors may witness dramatic river crossings, predator interactions, newborn wildlife, and endless herds stretching across the plains.

Great Migration Highlights Includes; River crossing experiences, Massive wildebeest herds, Big Cat sightings, Excellent wildlife photography opportunities, Seasonal safari departures

The Migration Calendar – Serengeti Focus – Based on the Northern Circuit Tanzania:

1. Calving Season: Jan – Mar | Southern Serengeti / Ndutu Area

~8,000 wildebeest calves born per day. Predator action is insane because lions, cheetahs, hyenas follow. Best for baby animals + lots of kills. Ndutu is just south of the Serengeti in the Ngorongoro Conservation Area.

2. Grumeti River Crossings: May – June | Western Serengeti

Herds build up before the dangerous river crossings. Fewer crowds than the Mara River later.

3. Mara River Crossings: July – Sept | Northern Serengeti

The iconic one. Huge herds cross crocodile-filled rivers to get to Kenya, then back to Tanzania. Northern Serengeti/Loliondo/Kogatende is where you want to be. This is peak season and most expensive.

4. Return South: Oct – Dec | Central + Eastern Serengeti

Herds move back down from the north after short rains start. Easier to find, fewer tourists, lower prices.
