Baccarat

Baccarat, which means 'zero' in Italian, is a card game that European aristocrats began to play in the early 16th century. The Player or the Banker whose total card score is closer to nine wins. Two cards are dealt for each hand, and one additional card can be dealt according to the game rules.

Blackjack

Blackjack is a card game between a player and a dealer. The player wins if his or her total score for a hand is higher than that of the dealer but does not exceed 21. A 'blackjack' refers to the case where the two initial cards dealt for a hand are an ace (A) and a ten (10, J, Q, K), which total 21 points.

Roulette

Roulette is a game where players bet on the winning number or color on which a spinning ball falls on the spinning wheel. The croupier spins the wheel and then spins a small ivory ball around the edge of the wheel that eventually stops on one of 38 slots of the wheel. Once the winning number is determined by the roulette wheel, the payouts, if any, are calculated depending on the amounts wagered on the table layout.

Sic Bo

Sic Bo is a game that originated in China. The payouts are calculated according to a preset rate when the sum of numbers on three dice determined by the dice shaker accords with the number or combination of numbers that players bet on.

Caribbean Stud Poker

Caribbean Stud Poker is a table game played against the house. The hand that has a higher score with five cards than that of the dealer wins. Players can choose to either continue to play with a raise or fold. The winning hand is determined by comparing the five cards of the players with the five cards of the dealer.

Three Card Poker

Three Card Poker is a variant of Stud Poker. The game is played against the dealer, and the hand that has a higher score of card combination wins. The players have the option of continuing by raising or folding. The winning hand is determined by comparing the three cards of the players with the three cards of the dealer.

Texas Hold'em

Texas Hold'em is similar to Seven-Card Stud. Two cards (hole cards) are dealt face down to each player, and then five community cards are placed face up by the dealer – a series of three first, a fourth card, and then a fifth card. The hand having the highest score from the hole cards and the community cards combined wins.

Slot Machine

A player inserts a coin into a slot machine and spins the reel by a lever or a spin button. If the combination of symbols on the reel is the same as the winning combination posted on the face of the machine when the reel stops, the player wins and the slot machine pays the player cash or some other token of value according to the rules.

Casino War

One card each is dealt to a dealer and a player, and the one with the higher card score wins. When the dealer and the player have cards of the same rank, they are placed in a tie situation and the player has two options: the player can surrender and lose half the bet or go to war, in which case both the player and the dealer must place an additional wager the same size as the original wager and determine the winner with an additional card.
