

Festival Tours

Step into a world of color, drums, and ancient stories.

Festivals in Bhutan—called tsechus—are a vibrant mix of sacred dances, masked performers, and communal joy. They're not staged performances, but living rituals that have remained unchanged for centuries.

Our festival tours are timed with Bhutan's major and lesser-known tsechus, offering front-row access, cultural context, and local insights. Come not just to see, but to feel the pulse of Bhutanese life.

Village Homestay

Home is the heart of culture.

Stay with a local family and experience Bhutan from the inside out. Share meals, learn how to cook traditional dishes, try your hand at weaving—or just sit by the hearth and listen to stories.

Comfortable, simple, and deeply human—our homestays are windows into everyday Bhutanese life.
